Geri Jewell

Introduced to millions as Cousin Geri on the NBC hit comedy “Facts of Life,” comedienne Geri Jewell has risen to become a leading force in disabilities advocacy. She was the first person with a visible disability to become a regular performer on a national, prime-time television show. Jewell is internationally recognized as a powerful motivational speaker and trainer. Jewell has also continued with her acting. She was selected to be part of the Emmy-winning HBO series “Deadwood,” and is a recurring character on “Young and the Restless.” She made her film debut this year in an independent feature shown at the Tribeca and Fort Lauderdale Film Festivals.
